Instructions: Follow the steps below to set up create and practice your elevator pitch. An elevator pitch is your answer to the interview question Tell me about yourself. Make sure you speak as if you are in an interview. Tailor your pitch to make it relevant to an interview for a software developer position.

1. Write your elevator pitch below. Your pitch should:

   a. be clear and concise

   b. be less than 30 seconds

   c. be a summary of who you are

   d. contain something personal (i.e. a hobby, passion, etc.)

My Elevator Pitch:

Hi, my name is Shawn Bataju, and I'm passionate about nature and tech. I have been learning software development for 2 years and I've become very comfortable in a tech environment through working in coding projects. I love problem solving and through college, work, and my other life experiences, I've learned when and how to get help. I love to finish what I have started, and I take pride in my work. If I could describe myself in three in words, I would be patient, creative, and caring.

2. Practice your elevator pitch out loud. Record your elevator pitch and upload it to the internet. You can use whichever tool you'd like to upload (Facebook, YouTube, DropBox, etc.), just make sure you can give someone a link to view the file. Paste the link to your uploaded recording below.
